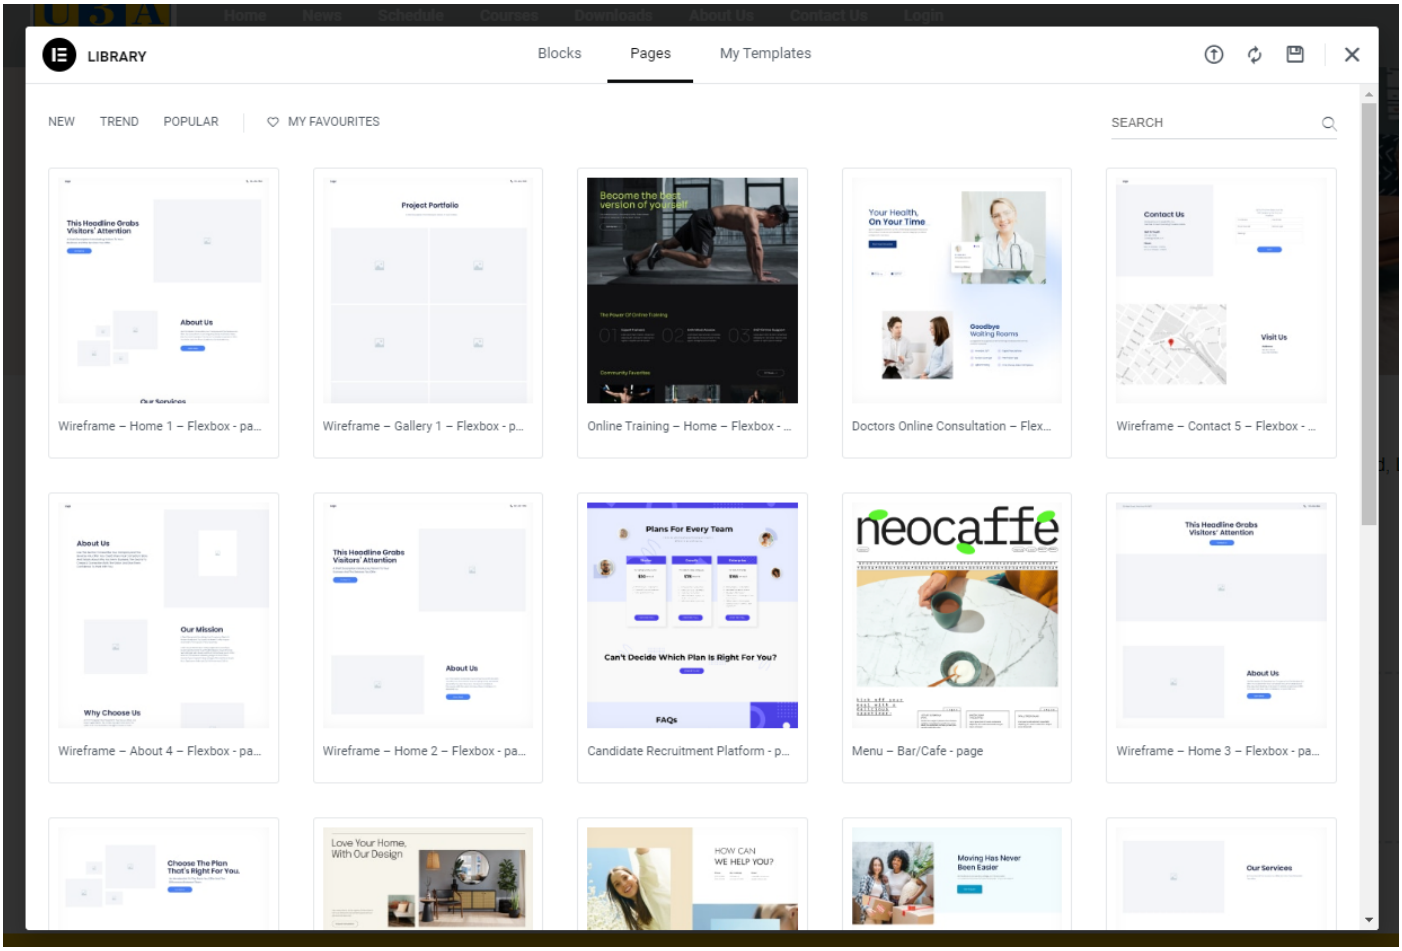
Elementor and Elementor Pro both feature the option to include page templates. These differ from blocks in that they are complete pages. To add an entire pre-designed page layout to your new page, click on the LIBRARY icon (looks like a file folder)

[elementor-add-new-layout]

Click on the PAGES tab at the top of the library to load the templates. These templates include stock images, fonts, headings and buttons - again you can customise this content with your required information.. Scroll through the displayed templates to find one you like, you can click on the thumbnail for a larger view. Click the purple INSERT button once you have chosen your template to intall.



Note: Elementor will ask you if you want to include the page settings. Choose YES. Wait for the editor to re-load the page and once again you will be able to edit each of the content containers using the editor panel on the left hand side by simply clicking an element and changing the options, or re-writing the text.

Save your work by clicking the publish button.

Note: You can save your work in stages as you work through the page. You do not have to wait until you have completely re-edited the page to save your work.
